Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY, BOSTON, Jan. 21, 1898.

To the Honorable Senate and the House of Representatives.

I have the honor to submit herewith, in compliance with section 204 of the Election Act of 1893, as amended by chapter 200 of the Acts of 1894, a report of the number of assessed polls, the number of registered male and female voters at the date of the last annual State election and city and town elections, and the total number of persons, both male and female, who voted at each such election in every city and town, and in every voting precinct of the several cities and towns, together with the number of votes received by each candidate for a State office at the last annual State election, arranged by cities, towns and districts, as returned to this office.

In further compliance with the law above quoted, I submit the following suggestions: —

(1.) I recommend that a codification of the election laws be enacted, either in the form reported by the Secretary of the Commonwealth to the Legislature of 1897, or as passed to be engrossed by the House of Representatives, last session (House, No. 1275), or in some modification of either of these forms. It is necessary at present, in order to discover the law on any given point, to search the general Election Act of 1893, which is the latest codification, and then through the statutes of the five subsequent years down to 1898, in which there were numerous enactments relative to elections. Codification is especially desirable on account of the voluminous and confusing statutory provisions regarding caucuses, nearly all of which have been passed since the Election Act of 1893. I respectfully ask that this subject may receive the early attention of the Legislature, the failure of the last Legislature to pass the codification being due, in part, to the late period of the session at which it came up for consideration.

(2.) I recommend that, in place of the existing McTammany voting machine acts, there be enacted a general law, similar to that passed in New York, which will relieve the Commonwealth of the incubus of the present monopoly, and give it the advantages of competition in this line of invention. None of the fifty McTammany voting machines purchased by the Commonwealth in 1896 was used during the past year, and the forty-eight machines which were used by the city of Worcester at the State election of 1896 have been returned by the city authorities, and are now in storage. The town of Boxborough retains the two which were assigned to that town, but has discontinued their use.

(3.) There is some difference of opinion as to the effect of the law of 1897 (section 11, chapter 530), providing that no political committee or chairman, warden or caucus officer shall deprive any registered voter from taking part in a caucus, if the voter will take an oath declaratory of his right to vote in the caucus. The provision is condemned by some and commended by others. I do not feel warranted in making any recommendation respecting it, until it has had a more general trial and test.

(4.) I suggest for the consideration of the Legislature the subject of the better regulation of the conduct of conventions. It will be observed that, while full and minute provision is made for the holding of nominating caucuses and for the nomination of candidates by nomination papers, the law is almost wholly silent with reference to nominating conventions. In this connection I call attention to an oversight in the drafting of section 25 of chapter 530 of the Acts of 1897, relative to the manner in which candidates shall be nominated by certain conventions. As the section stands, candidates may be nominated by a plurality vote, instead of by majority, and State conventions are subject to its provisions. Neither of these effects was intended, and I therefore recommend that the section be changed so that it shall not apply to State conventions, and will not permit nominations by plurality vote.

(5.) The constitution of boards of registrars of voters with an even number of members has caused some embarrassment, and is likely to cause more in future. The liability of deadlocks in such boards in the matter of recounts, for instance, is obvious. I therefore recommend that such boards be changed from an even to an odd number, — either three or five.

(6.) The Election Act of 1893 requires the Secretary of the Commonwealth to provide every city and town with suitable blank forms and apparatus, to be approved by a board of officers, for use at each polling place by the election officers in the canvass and count of votes. Such apparatus has not hitherto been furnished, for the reason that none worthy of approval has been presented to the examining board. At the present time, however, two different sets of apparatus have been submitted for examination, and have met the approval of the board. I therefore recommend an appropriation of five thousand dollars for the purchase thereof. This sum does not meet the price demanded by the inventors, but is, in my judgment, fair.

(7.) The provision of law (section 12, chapter 199 of the Public Statutes) providing for mileage to “sheriffs and other officers” for bringing returns of votes to the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth has become a dead letter, such returns being received by mail. I therefore recommend the repeal of so much of said section as refers to fees for such travel.

Very respectfully,

WM. M. OLIN,

Secretary.

First. The number of assessed male polls includes aliens and other persons who are not qualified to become registered voters.

Second. The number of registered male voters includes persons who are exempt from taxation and therefore are not included in the number of assessed male polls.

Third. Many names of voters on the list at the State election, are, by reason of change of residence, erased from the list of voters at municipal elections.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY, BOSTON, Jan. 27, 1899.

To the Honorable Senate and the House of Representatives.

I have the honor to submit herewith, in compliance with section 262 of the Election Act of 1898, a report of the number of assessed polls, the number of registered male and female voters at the date of the last annual State election and city and town elections, and the total number of persons, both male and female, who voted at each such election in each city and town, and in every voting precinct of the several cities and towns, together with the number of votes received by each candidate for a State office at the last annual State election, arranged by cities, towns and districts.

In further compliance with the law above quoted, I submit the following suggestions:—

(1) I commend to the serious consideration of the Legislature the subject of nominating candidates by direct vote as far as practicable, without the intermediate process of delegate conventions. I am convinced that there is a strong sentiment in favor of bringing the nomination of candidates as close to the people as possible. I am satisfied, also, that the more carefully the matter is considered, the more clearly its desirability will appear. To what extent the principle of direct voting in nominations can be applied, can be determined only by careful investigation and comparison of advantages and disadvantages. In my opinion, at least one step in this direction should be taken,—to wit, the nomination of candidates for the House of Representatives. In this case there is a special argument for a change,—that of uniformity,—inasmuch as the candidates in some districts are nominated by direct vote and in others by delegate conventions. Cognate to this subject I beg to suggest to the Legislature that, if conventions are to be continued as an essential part of our electoral system, they should be regulated by law, with the same care that is bestowed upon caucuses and elections; for one cannot fail to observe that, while our caucuses and elections are guarded by law at every conceivable point, there lies between the caucus and the election the process of the convention, in which are peculiarly favorable opportunities for political trades and manipulation, and which are left almost wholly outside the pale of legislation.

(2) A question has arisen as to the manner in which the number of members of political committees should be fixed, — whether or not this question can be determined by the committee itself. I suggest such an amendment to the election law as will make this point clear.

(3) It will be observed, in the provisions for caucuses other than those of political parties, that it is not specified whether a plurality or majority vote shall be required for a nomination. As the plurality rule prevails in caucuses of political parties, I suggest that the same provision be inserted here.

(4) I suggest that the provisions declaring candidates for election or nomination at a caucus to be ineligible as caucus officers at such caucuses apply, not only to caucuses of political parties in Boston and certain cities and towns, as at present, but to all caucuses of political parties.

(5) I suggest that the provisions of the election law relative to recounts of votes cast at caucuses be amended so as to require a report by the recounting officers of any change in nominations or elections by such caucuses.

(6) The question has arisen whether or not section 149 of the Election Act, relative to filling vacancies caused by withdrawal from nomination, etc., applies to nominations by nomination papers. It is quite clear that the section was intended to apply only to nominations by political parties by caucus or convention, and I suggest an amendment which shall remove all doubt.

(7) I renew my recommendation of last year for the repeal of the provision of law (section 12, chapter 199 of the Public Statutes) allowing mileage to sheriffs and other officers for bringing returns of votes to the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, such returns being now received by mail.

(8) The experience of the past year has brought to light several errors of minor importance in the codification of the statutes relative to elections, mostly arising from changing and condensing the old phraseology. I suggest that these be corrected, in order that they may be incorporated in the forthcoming report of the Commissioners for consolidating and arranging the Public Statutes of the Commonwealth.

VOTING MACHINES.

By Title VI. of the Election Act of 1898, the Secretary of the Commonwealth, the Treasurer and Receiver General and the Auditor of Accounts are directed to examine voting and counting machines and apparatus. Acting under this authority, and after published notice, the officers named examined three machines, — all that were submitted to them. Of the three machines examined, only one was approved, and upon this the following report was made : —

The undersigned, having examined the United States voting machine, in accordance with the provisions of section 267 of chapter 548 of the Acts of 1898, hereby certify their approval of said machine, as, in their judgment, furnishing a convenient, simple and satisfactory means of voting and of ascertaining the true result thereof with facility and accuracy, special regard being had to the preventing and detecting of double voting, and securing to the voter a degree of secrecy in voting equal to that afforded by the use of the official ballot as provided by law.

Whether the use of more than one machine at each polling place will be necessitated by the requirement of the Massachusetts Election Law that a voter shall vote separately, and not collectively, for the candidates of his choice, is a matter of doubt, which can be determined only by experience.

This report was transmitted to city and town clerks in the following circular : —

The following report on voting machines is published for the information of all concerned, especially boards of aldermen and selectmen. Of the three machines examined by the commission, only that designated in the report was approved, and this machine, while it met the specifications of the Election Act of 1898, is not yet perfected with regard to certain special provisions of law relative to the election of Congressmen and Representatives in the General Court. Therefore, in the determination of the question of adopting and purchasing these machines, it should be distinctly understood : —

First. That the examining commission makes no recommendation for or against the purchase and use of machines, that question being left entirely to the discretion of the several cities and towns.

Second. That the registering feature of the machine must not be employed in the election of Congressmen or Representatives in the General Court, for which written or printed ballots are required by a law of the United States and the Constitution of Massachusetts.

Respectfully submitted,

WM. M. OLIN,

Secretary.
